

news@afrl

R o u n d u p s

May 2002

AFRL awards $1.7M contract to Rome Research Corp.

by Fran Crumb, Information Directorate

ROME, N.Y. — The Air Force Research Laboratory has awarded a $1,796,178 contract to Rome Research Corp. for upgrades and refinements to various radar testbeds.

The three-year contract, “Testbeds for Emerging Radar Technology (TERT),” will expand on technology developed by the company under a 1998 contract with the Surveillance Radar Technology Branch of AFRL’s Sensors Directorate.

“The previous contract started various testbeds,” said Alfred F. Marriott, the program manager. “Advances made under that contract will be leveraged into the new work. We will be projecting further into the future and expanding capabilities in the sensors field to assist warfighters in their mission.” @